Welcome to this exclusive Sonic and Olympic event! We take a break from the regular adventures of the world's fastest hedgehog to find him and his friends preparing for the Olympics!

SONIC THE HEDGEHOG™

IN ANOTHER TIME, IN ANOTHER PLACE...

LET THE OLYMPIC GAMES BEGIN!

Sonic the Hedgehog and his pals are the shining beacon of hope for a world ravaged by the evil schemes of the insidious Dr. Eggman!

The mad doctor has made various attempts to spread chaos and fear, including turning living beings to robots, breaking the very planet itself to pieces, flooding cities, and using aliens as intergalactic gasoline to name but a few! What's his problem, anyway?! No matter what the scheme, Sonic, Tails, Amy Rose and all the other heroes of the planet have pulled through and preserved the peace!

The super speed of Sonic the Hedgehog has foiled the plots of Dr. Eggman, sure, but Sonic now has the opportunity to use his abilities to compete in the Olympic Games! And that's not all – Sonic's super friends have joined in on the competition to form the most powerful display of athletic talent ever!

All that power in one arena can mean only one thing: Dr. Eggman will be on the prowl, and there's only one true blue hero that can stop him...

Dear Sonic-Grams,
This is the comic book series that went from awesome to awesomer. I have a super fast question for you, so do you think you're fast enough to answer?

I'm a quick draw. You can say that I'm supersonic speedy!

How many Metal Sonics has Eggman made?

Well, there are many alternate versions of Metal Sonic, and they are all a part of a series. As for the most recent Metal Sonic, his model has been built about six times now! You can check out the entire list in the Sonic Comic Encyclopedia, available wherever fine books are sold! Plugplugplug

I plan on making a comic book series too some day so get ready!

Can't wait to see what you've got in store!

P.S: Since decimals are fair game I wanted to say I'm Sonic's #1.1 fan and if that's taken then #1.2 is cool too, and ever since you guys posted issue 200 your covers have gotten Awesomer. Keep getting Awesomer!

Your fan,
Patrick G. from Washington

Thanks for writing in, Patrick! We will continue down our path of awesome!

Dear Sonic-Grams,
Just wanted to ask some questions which I hope you guys will answer for me.

You've got Sonic-questions, we've got Sonic-answers!

First off, have you guys ever made a book on how to draw Sonic characters? I used to draw him all the time but got preoccupied for a while and lost my Sonic drawing talent.

A "How to draw Sonic" book, huh? That's a great idea! Maybe one day!

I really wanna apply for a job when I'm old enough (and if I get that good at drawing).

Keep practicing your skills and take drawing classes! That's how Sonic comic artists like Tracy Yardley and Patrick Spaziante got so good!

Anyway I also wanted to ask if you guys sell old comics. I know you can buy old digital comics on your website but I haven't found the ones I'm looking for.

Check out the Sonic Archives! Those graphic novels collect all of the classic Sonic comic stories ever produced, as well as the Sonic Select series, which is great to catch up on the classic specials. Both series are available now in fine book stores and online!

I really like Tracy Yardley and Steven Butler's artwork. I have also been enjoying the saga of Ixis Naugus and the Secret Freedom Fighters. I thought it was cool that Tails, Silver, and Scourge got their own Sonic Universe arcs. Have you thought of making one for Blaze or Vector?

You can catch Vector and the rest of the Chaotix in the upcoming Sonic Universe four-part story arc "Chaotix Quest" starting this November!

Anyway I really wanted to email you guys and hopefully you'll reply if you have time.

Joey E. from Utah

Thanks for writing in, Joey! You're a super fan!

That's all the room we have! Come back in 30 for more awesome Sonic stories!

See y'all next month!
